PRESIDENT’S LETTER

Dear Shareholders:

The Packers had another exciting year in 2016, with an electrifying, eight-game winning streak that propelled us to the NFC Championship Game, our second such appearance in the last three seasons. It marked the eighth consecutive season we made the playoffs— a team record—and we captured the division title for the fifth time in the last six seasons. This continued success in a very competitive league, spearheaded by Ted Thompson and Mike McCarthy, gives me confidence that we’ll continue to be in position to compete for the Super Bowl championship.

On the field, our players are among the most talented in the league, led by quarterback Aaron Rodgers. On both sides of the ball, we are fortunate to have a balance of veteran leaders, versatile playmakers and up-and-coming young players that we expect to contribute to another extraordinary season.

Off the field, our business operations have continued to be successful, with revenue surpassing $440 million on the strength of increases in both national and local revenue. Our net income and profit from operations remain strong as well, with our net income positively impacted by relocation fees from the three teams moving to different cities. We continued to host fans year-round for Lambeau Field Tours and visits to the Packers Hall of Fame, Packers Pro Shop and 1919 Kitchen & Tap.

Our suite and club seat renovation project wrapped up this offseason, with our east-side suites now featuring the new layouts, furniture, appliances and operable windows that fans in the west side suites gave rave reviews last year. The club seat common areas also received updates to carpet, furniture and décor, and the walls on all premium levels are now home to a unique collection of original Packers art and historical photographs that visitors will be able to enjoy on special tours.

We are also looking forward this season to the opening of the Johnsonville Tailgate Village on the east side of Lambeau Field in the parking lot. A year-round event space, the JTV will also be a hub in which fans can gather and enjoy themselves on gamedays.

Titletown, our mixed-use real estate development west of Lambeau Field, continues to progress, with Hinterland now open and the grand openings of Lodge Kohler and Bellin Health Titletown Sports Medicine and Orthopedics this summer. The unique park space will be open to the public soon, and later this fall, we’ll open the tubing hill and ice skating pond and trail, which will welcome visitors and community members to enjoy activities throughout the winter. Planning also continues for the second phase of the development, which will include a residential component. We are looking forward to seeing this new space enhance the greater Green Bay area by attracting more visitors and providing an excellent amenity for our residents.

A crucial component of our stewardship of the organization is to support the community through charitable giving, community events and outreach programs. Green Bay Packers Give Back, our all-encompassing community outreach initiative, achieved new heights this year, surpassing $8 million in charitable impact. This amount includes $1.3 million in grants awarded to non-profit organizations through the Packers Foundation, with $250,000 impact grants awarded to the Jackie Nitschke Center and St. Norbert College.

Thank you for your outstanding support of the Packers each year. Your dedication and passion motivates us to excel both on and off the field, and we greatly appreciate it. I look forward to seeing you at the Annual Meeting as we gear up for another exciting season.

Sincerely,

Mark H. Murphy
President & Chief Executive Officer
YEAR IN REVIEW
THE OFFSEASON

As the team prepared for the 2016 season, another exciting playoff run was on Packers fans’ minds. It was the seventh straight trip to the playoffs, the 18th appearance in the last 23 seasons and, overall, was the 31st postseason berth in team history, tying the Cowboys and Giants for most in NFL history, further embedding the Packers as one of the league’s flagship franchises.

The team’s consistent approach and success under GM Ted Thompson and Head Coach Mike McCarthy give perspective to the disappointing Divisional playoff loss at Arizona in overtime. Fans know the team will continue to prepare with high expectations.

“Our team will sleep well because they put everything they had into that football game,” McCarthy said after the season. “We don’t have a loser mentality here. We take full responsibility for the expectations here. We’re not afraid to talk about winning world championships. We were a successful football team this year. We just didn’t reach the level we wanted to attain.”

With the off-season and preparation underway, McCarthy adjusted his coaching staff, featuring two promotions on the offensive side of the ball with Luke Getsy and David Raih becoming receivers coach and assistant offensive line coach, respectively. On defense, Ejiro Evero joined the staff as a quality control coach.

-Mike McCarthy

With the offense having a less productive year in 2015, McCarthy said the changes would help their approach to improve for 2016.

“We have a program that works, but we can’t lose sight that each and every day we have to try to make it better,” he said. “When our players get back here in April, we’ll present the vision and direction to them and we’ll start that march to 2016.

“It’s all about getting back to the big game and bringing that trophy back home. Once you stand on that stage, there’s nothing else you want, and everybody understands that.”

THE NFL DRAFT

At the annual NFL Scouting Combine in Indianapolis, talk of the Packers included the observation that quarterback Aaron Rodgers is in the second decade of his career, but Thompson reiterated his approach about building the team and not making any significant adjustments to it.

“I think you have a philosophy in how you think is the best way to build a team,” Thompson said. “We’re not going to chase a ghost just because the clock is ticking.

“I think you have a philosophy and I think you stick with that philosophy. It doesn’t make sense to me … everybody’s talking about how we’ve been in position to be fairly successful for some time. You can’t do that if you’re changing all the time.”

McCarthy echoed that approach.
In addition to Clark, the Packers added (2) Jason Spriggs, T, Indiana; (3) Kyler Fackrell, LB, Utah State; (4) Blake Martinez, LB, Stanford; (4b) Dean Lowry, DE, Northwestern; (5) Trevor Davis, WR, California; and (6) Kyle Murphy, T, Stanford.

While the Packers didn’t draft some positions that might have also been needed, Thompson felt the team hit on some key areas, particularly with the big-guy wishes, as four of the seven selections were linemen.

“You wish you could do these other things, too, but you can’t do every single thing in one draft,” he said.

The offseason program had a positive buzz as the players returned to town to step up preparations for the season.

“When Mike (McCarthy) has to kind of quiet guys down, and it’s not just quiet when he walks in, you know there’s good energy in the room, and it’s fun,” Rodgers said.

The excitement was a good sign.

“That just goes to show that we miss each other and it’s great to get back, and that’s the type of team that you want,” defensive tackle Mike Daniels said.

“This is when the chemistry starts to form,” Rodgers said.

Wide receiver Jordy Nelson, who missed the 2015 campaign with a knee injury, continued on track with his return to the field.

With the roster for 2016 mostly assembled, the players continued their preparations within the program. In addition to the physical work and classroom study, the process included getting to know the new additions, and when it involves a two-time NFL MVP, a proactive approach is employed with the younger players.

“There’s a lot of ’90s babies in here,” Rodgers said with a smile. “They might not feel comfortable asking those questions right away, so you have to kind of break down and have an ice-breaker, whether it’s a joke or a nickname or a funny anecdote that you read about them.

“You just have to be intentional about it and find time to talk to those guys. The more comfortable that they feel with you, the more comfortable they’re going to be in asking questions. The more questions that they ask — in an appropriate time — then we can start to get on the same page.”

With the Packers playing in the Hall of Fame preseason game, the additional week of training camp would be used primarily for the development of young players.

“I look at it as an opportunity to develop the youth of your team with that extra week,” McCarthy said. “An opportunity to play your young players more, I look at it as an advantage.”

In offseason personnel moves, the team signed all-time leading scorer Mason Crosby to a new contract, ensuring the veteran kicker will remain with the Packers to continue his successful career.

“What better place to be than in Green Bay where I’ve started building a legacy these nine years and I’ve established myself here,” Crosby said. “I couldn’t really imagine playing anywhere else.”

On the free agency side, the team signed tight end Jared Cook, who would help McCarthy’s offense as a player who could make an impact down the middle of the field.

Davante Adams excelled in his third year as a pro, playing in all 16 games and posting career highs with 75 catches for 997 yards. Adams was tied for No. 2 in the NFL with 12 touchdown catches, another career best. He registered a career-high four 100-yard receiving games and a career-best 10 catches of 25-plus yards. Adams, tied for league lead with three multi-receiving touchdown games, was named an alternate for the Pro Bowl.

Mason Crosby continued his exceptional kicking record, connecting on 26 of 30 field goals (86.7 percent) and 44 of 47 extra points. With 1,267 career points, Crosby ranks No. 1 on the all-time franchise scoring list. He has played in 18 postseason games with the Packers, the second most in team history. He kicked a 51-yard field goal as time expired in the 34-31 Divisional playoff win at Dallas on Jan. 15, the longest game-winning kick in NFL postseason history.

Mike Daniels maintained his leadership role on the defense, starting 16 games and registering 44 tackles, four sacks and a fumble recovery. He was named an alternate for the Pro Bowl for the second straight season and was part of a run defense that allowed only 94.7 rushing yards per game. He led the defensive line during the postseason with 13 tackles and tied for the team lead with four QB hits.

Ha Ha Clinton-Dix built upon his reputation as an ascending safety, starting all 16 games and registering 44 tackles, four sacks and a fumble recovery. He was named an alternate for the Pro Bowl for the second straight season and was part of a run defense that allowed only 94.7 rushing yards per game. He led the defensive line during the postseason with 13 tackles and tied for the team lead with four QB hits.
As training camp opened, McCarthy discussed one of his initial goals was to put an emphasis on fundamentals as a way to address some of the offensive deficiencies that existed in 2015.

“We need to be much better offensively in the area of fundamentals,” McCarthy said. “Last year was not good enough and the numbers reflected that. We clearly addressed that. We had a chance to go back and view all the cut-ups. Those cut-ups and lessons learned will be part of our installation phase during training camp.”

While specific areas would receive focus throughout camp, the overriding goal remained the same.

“It’s about winning a world championship,” McCarthy stressed. “It’s a part of our every-down fiber here in Green Bay. Every team in the National Football League, I’m sure, is talking about that their first day of training camp.”

With respect to offense, Rodgers appreciated the budding competition at the wide receiver position during practices.

“It’s going to be a lot of great competition,” Rodgers said. “That’s exciting as a quarterback. We have a lot of guys who are going to be competing for those, really, three through however many spots they keep. It’s going to be fun to watch.”

For the second preseason in a row, the Packers proudly watched a member of the family get enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame as Brett Favre took the podium in Canton. Among the people he thanked was former general manager Ron Wolf, who was enshrined in 2015. He also thanked his late father, Irv, for the impact he had on his life and career. Additionally, Favre, of course, paid tribute to the many Packers fans in attendance.

“Make no mistake about it, I will be remembered as a Packer,” he said.

Although the game ended up being cancelled due to poor field conditions, the extra time in camp was a benefit to the Packers.

The remainder of the preseason consisted of the team’s usual approach of practice and evaluation, and using the games as a means of getting new players up to speed, honing the veterans’ skills and seeing which of the second-year players will make that jump in development that is expected.

After a 3-1 finish to the preseason, the team embarked upon the difficult task of establishing the 53-man roster.

“It’s busy,” McCarthy said of the process. “A lot of conversation, a lot of different scenarios. You try to make the right decisions. You have to evaluate production, evaluate projection. That’s a lot of what these decisions come down to.”

THE REGULAR SEASON

The season opener in Jacksonville, along with the heat, featured the return of Nelson, who hadn’t played in a full, meaningful game since the NFC Championship following the 2014 season. He certainly was eager to play, but wasn’t going to establish any set-in-stone expectations.

“We’re not going to put a number on it,” he said. “We’ve discussed it. We’ll play it snap by snap. Seeing what the weather’s like, I wouldn’t be surprised if a lot of guys are rotating just to stay fresh.”

While the offense was welcoming Nelson back, it also was making an adjustment on the line following the release of Josh Sitton. Lane Taylor, a fourth-year veteran, was set to step in and assume the starting role.

“I’m not going to try to make it bigger than it actually is,” Taylor said. “Once you make the team, you’re on the team, you’re competing and you’re getting better each and every week to put yourself in a position to go out and play.”

On the other side of the ball, McCarthy expected a more mature, experienced group to make a difference.

“I think our understanding on defense is higher this year than it’s been the past two years,” McCarthy said. “We’ve been relatively young throughout our defense, and now you’re seeing the maturity of these guys.”

That defense ended up making the game-saving play when cornerback Damarious Randall was the first of a swarming group that dropped Jaguars receiver Allen Hurns for a 1-yard loss on fourth-and-1 with 23 seconds left.

“I was very proud of how our guys kept fighting,” McCarthy said. “The last play was an example of the finish and pursuit of our defense.”

Week 2 featured the Packers as the Vikings’ guests in the opening of their new facility, U.S. Bank Stadium, but the team fell short in ruining the festivities as they lost, 17-14, when two fourth-quarter turnovers sunk drives that were on the edge of field-goal range.

Rodgers was particularly hard on himself when reviewing the game later in the week, but that’s expected from the team’s leader.

“I didn’t play as well as I wanted to last week,” he explained. “I turned the ball over twice, and I can’t do that if we’re going to win the game. I know I’ve got to play better, and I will.”

The results for Rodgers and company were improved during the home-opening, 34-27, victory over the Lions in Week 3. Nelson caught two of Rodgers’ four TDs on the day as the QB finished with a 129.3 passer rating, and running back Eddie Lacy topped 100 yards on the ground.

“I thought they were dialed in,” McCarthy said of the offense. “It was important for us to have a healthy run-and-pass mix. I thought our guys executed at a high level. We had a lot of explosive plays.”

The team’s annual bye, although earlier than what would generally be preferred, came at a good time for this year’s Packers with four defensive starters and a key sub missing the Lions contest with injuries.

“It’s early, it’s different, but it’s obvious – we need it,” McCarthy said. “This is a good time for us.”

Former Packers assistant coach Ben McAdoo returned to Lambeau Field as head coach of the New York Giants in Week 5, but the hosts were not about to be too cordial as the Packers won, 23-16, to improve to 3-1 on the season. The Packers’ defense stood out in the contest, holding the Giants to just 219 total yards and only four third-down conversions.

“It really starts with our young secondary,” McCarthy said. “Those young corners did a heck of a job. We moved some guys around and they did a very good job executing the game plan.”

While the next week’s gameday at Lambeau Field did not pan out well on the game front — a 30-16 loss to the Cowboys — Packers fans did enjoy seeing Favre return to the stadium to see his name unveiled alongside the other legends on the façade during a halftime ceremony.

“Never once did I think what it would be like for my name to be up there,” Favre said after the ceremony. “I never looked at myself then or now as an equal to Bart Starr or one of my idols, Roger Staubach. So when I look up at Don Hutson, Ray Nitschke, Fuzzy Thurston, Willie Wood, Willie Davis, I place myself at a lower level than those guys.”

The Packers’ opportunity for a rebound came quickly as the team hosted the Chicago Bears in a Thursday night contest, a game that featured both teams in their color rush uniforms. The Packers, wearing white jerseys with white pants, defeated the dark navy-clad Bears, 26-10.

Rodgers helped break open a tight game in the second half by leading the Packers on three-straight TD drives to overcome a 10-6 disadvantage. In the process, he set a franchise record with 39 completions, but he wasn’t giving it much thought afterward.

Nick Perry

Perry had a career year in 2016, establishing himself as a force on defense and leading the team with a career-high 11 sacks while playing in 14 games. He registered 60 tackles (43 solo) and led the team in tackles for a loss (15) and QB pressures (17). Perry also ranked No. 2 on the team in QB hits (15), and was part of a run defense that ranked No. 8 in the league in rushing yards allowed per game (94.7).

David Bakhtiari

Bakhtiari cemented his status as one of the league’s best left tackles, earning second-team All-Pro honors at left tackle by The Associated Press, as well as his first career Pro Bowl selection as an injury replacement. As part of a line that helped the Packers rank in the top 10 in the NFL in scoring, Bakhtiari also helped the offense to No. 2 in the league for third-down conversions and No. 3 for time of possession.

“A lot of times records like these are achieved in losses when you’re way behind and have to battle back,” he said. “It’s nice, but it’s something you maybe look at down the road. Records are meant to be broken, and I’m sure someone will come along at some point and break it. Maybe myself if I get lucky enough.”

The Packers’ next four weeks took an uncharacteristic turn with four consecutive losses, beginning with a tough, last-minute loss at Atlanta, 33-32. The defense made plays throughout the contest, but not in the final stretch.

“When you’re playing against a good offense like that, just doing your job is not enough,” Daniels said. “You have to go above and beyond. We have to make sure we put ourselves in a position to do that more. When you put up 32 points, you have to win. That’s all there is to it. Those guys (the offense) came out and played with fire and we didn’t do enough.”

Other losses came against Indianapolis at home (31-26), at Tennessee (47-25) and at Washington (42-24). While the team stood at 4-6, there was still confidence the season could be turned around.

“I feel like we can run the table, I really do,” Rodgers said. “The offense is starting to click a little bit more. We just have to put together a game where we’re consistent from the first snap to the last. We’ve been getting closer to that. We’ve really been clicking at times the last few games. It’s going to be important that we get going early.”

Rodgers’ words would be prophetic as the run began the very next week at Philadelphia with a 27-13 win.

“Winning is hard, it’s very difficult in this league,” McCarthy said after the win. “We haven’t had the feeling in five weeks. We missed it. It felt good.”

The defense responded after giving up more than 40 points in the previous two games.

“It’s just a good feeling,” safety Morgan Burnett said. “No one likes to lose. We’re all competitors in here so just to get that win today, that’s what you want.”

Back at home the next week in some wintry weather, the Packers put together 98- and 89-yard scoring drives in the fourth quarter to defeat Houston, 21-13, and even their record at 6-6 with the final quarter of the season to go.
They took care of business against the Vikings on Christmas Eve at home as Rodgers and Nelson teamed up on offense to fuel the 38-25 victory. The wide receiver continued his strong comeback season with nine receptions for 154 yards and 2 TDs. Linebacker Clay Matthews notched a sack-fumble that led to a TD just before halftime.

The following week saw the team capture the division title for the fifth time in six years with a 31-24 victory at Ford Field over the Lions. “That was a fun win there,” McCarthy said. “I just want to tell you how proud I am of my football team. I think today was a great picture inside of what it’s been like all year. Resiliency, time and time again.”

In the Wild Card playoff against the Giants, the Packers overcame a slow start offensively to see Rodgers throw four touchdown passes as the offense scored five TDs and a field goal in a span of eight possessions beginning late in the second quarter to pull away with the 38-13 victory.

One highlight was a 42-yard Hail Mary from Rodgers to Randall Cobb on the final play of the first half. It was the third such scoring throw in just a little over a year for Rodgers.

“You have to have the protection, but to throw that ball with the arc, that’s really the key to it,” McCarthy said. “It gives your receivers a chance to catch that ball. Randall Cobb made an excellent, instinctive play. A big play, and it gave us something going into halftime.”

A thrilling finish in the Divisional playoff at Dallas followed the next weekend, with the Packers getting a walk-off, 51-yard field goal from Crosby to defeat the Cowboys, 34-31. It was the longest game-winning kick in NFL playoff history, set up by a 36-yard strike from Rodgers to Cook on third-and-20 from the Packers’ 36. Cook made a beautiful, toes-just-inside-the-sideline catch with just three seconds remaining on the clock.

“Well, that was one heckuva football game to be a part of, and I’m sure it was a great one to watch,” McCarthy said of the team’s eighth straight win.

“Well, that was one heckuva football game to be a part of, and I’m sure it was a great one to watch.”

-Mike McCarthy

The momentum would end the following week, however, as the Packers lost to Atlanta, 44-21, in the NFC Championship Game at the Georgia Dome. The Falcons displayed remarkable offensive firepower the Packers were unable to overcome.

“We ran into a buzzsaw and those guys performed great, and we didn’t have enough to keep up with them,” McCarthy said. “That clearly wasn’t the way we anticipated or prepared for our season to end, but I think that’s a credit to the Falcons, and frankly, we ran out of gas.”

For the organization and its fans, it was an exhilarating run from a 4-6 record all the way to the conference title game, the second such trip in three seasons. Overall, with their team-record eighth straight postseason appearance, it was another successful campaign. It marked the 19th trip to the playoffs in the last 24 years, a remarkable run in this era of parity in the NFL. In a further testament to the team’s consistent, high-level success over the last 10 seasons, the Packers rank second in the NFL for wins, winning seasons, division championships and conference championship game appearances. The future remains very bright.

Despite beginning his career as a wide receiver, Ty Montgomery transitioned seamlessly to running back and played in 15 games, with six starts, in his second year in the league. After making his first pro start against Chicago Oct. 20, he led the team with 457 rushing yards and three touchdowns on just 77 carries, and among NFL running backs with 75-plus carries, he ranked No. 1 in the league with an average of 5.9 yards per carry.

TITLETOWN DISTRICT

Construction continued on phase one of Titletown, a destination area on approximately 45 acres of land west of Lambeau Field, with Hinterland, Lodge Kohler and Bellin Health Titletown Sports Medicine & Orthopedics opening for business. The area also includes a large public park with year-round, diverse programming, a winter tubing hill and ice skating, which will be available for visitors and community members to enjoy this fall.
In 2017, the organization completed a two-year, $55 million renovation of the Lambeau Field premium seating areas. The renovation included the installation of operable windows in the suites, as well as reconfiguring suite layouts and updating furniture, appliances and carpeting. The club seating common areas were also renovated, with updated décor, furniture and carpeting, as well as video walls and graphics. The walls also feature a new collection of original Packers-inspired art and unique historical photography for fans and visitors to enjoy.

The Green Bay Packers were rated as the No. 2 pro football team (and No. 4 sports franchise overall) in ESPN The Magazine’s 2016 Ultimate Standings, which measures how much MLB, NBA, NFL and NHL franchises give back to the fans in exchange for all the time, money and emotion the fans invest in them.

The rankings also named the organization the best in the NFL in fan relations, stadium experience and ownership.

The Packers announced on Feb. 1, 2017, that Lambeau Field would welcome legendary musician Billy Joel for a concert on June 17, 2017. The concert brought plenty of excitement and visitors to the Green Bay area, resulting in a $5 million impact in the community. The concert was attended by more than 45,000 music fans, and was only the third major concert to be held at Lambeau Field since the stadium redevelopment in 2003. The other concerts, one headlined by country musician Kenny Chesney in 2011, and the other one co-headlined by Jason Aldean and Chesney in 2015, attracted more than 45,000 and 50,000 music lovers, respectively.

On Saturday, Sept. 3, 2016, Lambeau Field went collegiate, hosting the Lambeau Field College Classic, presented by Carmex®, between the LSU Tigers and Wisconsin Badgers. The contest marked the first college football game at the historic stadium since 1983 and had an economic impact of more than $13 million, with fans from both contingents traveling to the area for the week and weekend of the game. In a thrilling finish, Wisconsin defeated LSU, 16-14, in front of a crowd of 77,823.

One new member was elected to the Packers Board of Directors in 2016: Marcia Anderson, Clerk of Court for the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Western Wisconsin and the first African-American woman to rise to the rank of major general in the United States Army.

Anderson, 58, who is now retired from the military, commanded at the Company (approximately 200 soldiers) level through the General Officer (up to 7,000 soldiers) level, and prior to her retirement, she served as Deputy Chief, United States Army Reserve, and Deputy Commanding General for the Army Human Resources Command at Fort Knox.

Anderson’s legal career also included time spent as an attorney and clerk of courts, including several years with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. She currently works in Madison as the Clerk of Court for the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Western Wisconsin.

Following the 2016 season, construction got underway for the Johnsonville Tailgate Village, a year-round event space and permanent tailgating hub on gamedays. The new, permanent space, which is now completed, is an extension of Lambeau Field, reflecting the stadium’s unique look and feel.

On gamedays, more than 2,000 fans can experience a high-energy atmosphere featuring music and entertainment, large screen televisions, food and beverages and other tailgating activities. On non-gamedays, the structure is a flexible space available for groups to rent and use for private events such as weddings or corporate gatherings.

The team introduced a new variable pricing model for season tickets in 2016, with one set price for preseason games, and another for regular-season games. The pricing model included a two-tier structure that prices preseason tickets significantly lower than regular-season tickets. The model was applied to a ticket cost which, over all 10 games, increased an average of $5 per ticket, an increase of about five percent.
The history of the Green Bay Packers is rich with on-field accomplishments and a special bond with the community that has supported the organization throughout its 98-year history. As the legend of the Green Bay Packers has grown with time, so has the Packers’ responsibility to the community.

Nonprofit organizations throughout Wisconsin and Upper Michigan look to the Green Bay Packers for both tangible and intangible assistance for their beneficiaries — help that comes in the form of money, food, clothing, autographs, or even the visit of someone’s sports hero.

The Green Bay Packers organization, along with its players and coaches, willingly accepts this responsibility, organizing charitable involvement that comes to fruition through the commitment of the players, coaches and staff.

Green Bay Packers Give Back is the Packers’ all-encompassing community outreach initiative, which includes the Green Bay Packers Foundation’s annual and impact grants, and more than 10,000 autographed items donated for fundraising efforts in the past year. Other key outreach areas include the more than 900 yearly appearances made by players, coaches and staff, youth football grants and outreach camps, cash and in-kind donations, Make-A-Wish visits and community events and initiatives.

The following is an overview of the organization’s Green Bay Packers Give Back efforts from the last year. Combined with direct cash donations by the Packers to various charity endeavors, these efforts resulted in a comprehensive Green Bay Packers Give Back charity impact in excess of $8 million in 2016. BREAST CANCER AWARENESS MONTH RECOGNITION
Each October, Lambeau Field and the team don pink to raise awareness for breast cancer. At the game against the Giants, Zeta Tau Alpha handed out 25,000 complimentary pink ribbons to fans attending the game. The American Cancer Society distributed #PackersVsCancer selfie cards along the fan walkway, encouraging fans to write the name of someone they know who has been affected by cancer and honor them by sharing a selfie with a card.

PACKERS 5K RUN PRESENTED BY BELLIN HEALTH
The seventh annual Packers 5K Run presented by Bellin Health was held in 2016. Nearly 4,900 runners made their way through Lambeau Field and around neighboring streets to raise $11,758, which was donated to the American Red Cross, Volunteer Center of Green Bay and Big Brothers Big Sisters of Northeastern Wisconsin.

BROWN COUNTY CHILDREN’S CHARITY GOLF CLASSIC
Since 2004, the Packers and Brown County have collaborated to host this annual event. Packers players Jayrone Elliott, Jake Schum and Jared Abbrederis were present this year to help raise $58,000 for House of Hope and the Northeast Wisconsin Technical College Educational Foundation.

COMMUNITY PARTNERS
Through the support of the Packers, Bon Ton and the Community Partners program, 5,500 high school student athletes, parents, coaches and administrators in Milwaukee had access to 20 distinct Positive Coaching Alliance workshops during the 2016-17 school year. The workshops provide information, inspiration and tools to teach those involved in sports how to reach their potential as athletes. The Packers Community Partners program helps those in need in southeast Wisconsin through donations, fundraising and volunteerism.

DELaware NORTH SPORTSERVICE CONCESSION STAND EFFORTS
In 2016, 77 nonprofit groups staffed Lambeau Field’s concession stands, each earning a percentage of their stand’s net sales. More than $1.2 million was returned to these nonprofit groups for their efforts.

FIRST DOWNS FOR TREES
Each regular season, the Packers donate trees for every first down earned, with 490 trees planted in 2016. Since the program began in 2010, more than 3,600 trees have been planted, which provide total lifetime benefits of $18.3 million to the community. The program is possible through the partnership between the Packers, SCA and Green Bay Packaging, with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources and Wisconsin Public Service providing administrative support. In 2016, Packers alumni Kevin Barry and Johnnie Gray also supported the cause, helping to plant donated trees.

The Packers join Verizon Wireless each year to power the HopeLine® Program at Lambeau Field, which collects no-longer-used cell phones and accessories and refurbishes them for survivors of domestic violence. A cell phone drive was held throughout the season, and fans were invited to donate to a large-scale collection at an October home game. Through the program, Verizon awarded a $50,000 grant to End Domestic Abuse WI for their Statewide Teen Dating Violence and Healthy Relationships Project.

TRAINING CAMP
People come from all over the world to experience Green Bay Packers training camp. Fifteen practices in 2016 were open to the public and free of charge, with more than 37,000 railbirds – fans who watched practice – attending throughout training camp. Just as exciting as watching a practice is experiencing the storied “riding of the bikes” tradition. Since the Lombardi era, Packers players ride young fans’ bikes, while the kids jog alongside, from the locker room to the practice field. This year, kids from the Boys & Girls Club of Greater Green Bay were able to participate in this tradition by riding American Family DreamDrive bicycles with players.

GIVING

PACKERS, CARMEX®, DELAWARE NORTH DONATE TO AMERICAN RED CROSS LOUISIANA FLOOD RELIEF EFFORT

For the first time since 1983, Lambeau Field hosted a college football game, the Lambeau Field College Classic, presented by Carmex®, between the LSU Tigers and Wisconsin Badgers in September. While the game welcomed fans traveling from all over the country, many LSU fans and Louisiana residents unfortunately faced catastrophic flooding in Louisiana during the weeks leading up to the game. To welcome the many fans traveling for the LSU-Wisconsin game and to support those facing the disaster in Louisiana, the Packers and their partners Carmex® and Delaware North donated a combined $55,000 to the Red Cross flood relief efforts. Fans at the game donated as well, resulting in an additional $11,300 donated to help those in need in Louisiana.

COMMUNITY EVENTS GRANTS

Every year, the Packers waive room rental fees at Lambeau Field for four nonprofit organizations hosting an event at the stadium. The recipients in 2016 were the Alice in Dairyland Finals, Boys & Girls Club of Greater Green Bay, Brown County Breastfeeding Coalition and United Way of Brown County.

SCHOLARSHIPS

The Green Bay Packers Foundation, along with Scholarships, Inc. and Northeast Wisconsin Technical College, awarded 54 scholarships totaling $53,000 to students who are residents of Brown County and meet the scholarship criteria. This scholarship program is funded in part with the royalty fees paid for the use of the Packers logo on Wisconsin automobile license plates, and since 2006, the Green Bay Packers have added an additional $201,000 to fund these scholarships.

MATCHING GIFTS

The Green Bay Packers Matching Gifts program encourages eligible employees to actively support nonprofit organizations. To receive matching donations on behalf of the Packers, employees complete forms that accompany their personal donations to nonprofit organizations. The Packers made their annual donation to the Diocese, adding to the more than $3.7 million donated since 1960.

DONATIONS

With more than 12,000 donation requests received annually, supporting the fundraising efforts of organizations across Wisconsin continues to be the Packers’ leading outreach effort. A variety of items were donated in 2016, raising more than $3 million to assist with helping those in need.

Separate cash donations to nonprofit organizations exceeded $5 million during this same time period, and 100 percent of Wisconsin’s counties received in-kind donations.

Those interested in requesting a donation to benefit a nonprofit organization in Wisconsin must apply online at packers.com/community/donations.html. Only applications that are submitted a minimum of six weeks in advance of the event will be considered.

GREEN BAY PACKERS FOUNDATION

The Green Bay Packers Foundation in 2016 awarded $800,000 to 316 civic and charitable groups throughout Wisconsin. Combined with two $250,000 impact grants, one awarded to the Jackie Nitschke Center in Green Bay and one awarded to St. Norbert College in De Pere, $1.3 million was granted through the Foundation in 2016. During this annual grant cycle disbursement, 69 percent of Wisconsin’s counties received at least one grant from the Foundation.

Nonprofit organizations located in Wisconsin interested in applying for a grant can apply online March 1 through June 1 at packers.com/community/packers-foundation.html.

MIDWEST SHRINE GAME

Designating one preseason game as the Midwest Shrine game has been an annual tradition since 1950. Following the game, a donation was made to the Midwest Shrine’s burn center and hospitals, adding to the more than $3.5 million donated over the last 66 years. Janine Brass, a former patient of the Shrine Hospital, sang the national anthem prior to the Packers-Browns game.

In 2016, the Packers devoted money from the NFL Foundation’s “Salute to Service Team Program Grant” toward Operation Cold Snap, a project helmed by local veteran’s organization 4th HOOAH (Helping Out Our American Heroes). Operation Cold Snap aims to make sure veterans in Wisconsin have properly working furnaces. HONORING MILITARY RETIREES

The Packers proudly fly United States flags over Lambeau Field in dedication to the men and women who have made a commitment to serve their country. Often, the team receives requests from military personnel as they prepare for retirement, and the Packers have flown over 40 flags at Lambeau Field in the last year honoring military retirements.

PLAYERS, COACHES & ALUMNI OUTREACH

PACKERS PLAYERS SIGN AUTOGRAPHS FOR SALVATION ARMY DONATIONS; AARON RODGERS MATCHES DONATION AMOUNTS

Each holiday season, Packers players sign autographs at Lambeau Field in exchange for donations to the Salvation Army Red Kettle campaign. In 2016, Packers quarterback Aaron Rodgers joined in the charitable cause, generously pledging to match each donation given during the Lambeau Field autograph signings. Weekly signings during the month of December featured different players each week, including Rodgers himself. Fans at Lambeau Field donated more than $38,000 for the Salvation Army, which was matched by Rodgers, culminating in a grand total of more than $76,000 for autograph signings.

NFL HOMETOWN HUDDLE

Hometown Huddle is a partnership between the NFL and United Way, and includes a day of service aimed at making an impact on youth health and fitness. In November, Packers players Makinton Dorleant, Christian Ringo and Jason Spriggs; Packers employees; the United Way of Brown County and Door County; Algoma Wolves tech students and the Algoma Parks & Recreation Department collaborated to build a warming house for a new ice skating rink at Peterson Park in Algoma.

NFL MAN OF THE YEAR AWARD

Each season, the Packers nominate a player for the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award to recognize a player’s off-the-field community service as well as his on-the-field performance. The Packers’ 2016 nominee was linebacker Jayrone Elliott. He was recognized for his continual investment of time and talents outside of football in the community including speaking to young people at local schools and youth programs in Wisconsin, Arizona and his native Ohio.
FUEL UP TO PLAY 60 SCHOOL VISIT
Students at Heritage Elementary School in De Pere spent a memorable morning with some green and gold guests in November when Packers players Morgan Burnett, Jayrone Elliott, Mike Pennel and Nick Perry visited to celebrate the school’s $2,500 Fuel Up to Play 60 Hometown grant. The players reminded students during their visit of the importance of proper nutrition and led some fun, high-energy activities to help the kids work their way to 60 minutes of exercise.

APPEARANCES
Members of the organization, players, coaches, staff and alumni are committed to supporting the community through appearances at local nonprofit fundraisers, school visits, athletic banquets and many other events and programs. Over 1,000 appearances were made in 2016.

Those interested in scheduling an appearance with a member of the Packers can apply at packers.com/appearances. Only applications submitted a minimum of eight weeks in advance of the event will be considered.

ALUMNI
With several special alumni homecomings throughout the year, 2016 was highlighted by a four-day celebration honoring alumni from various decades. Many alumni who were part of the Super Bowl XXXI team were also recognized at various home games throughout the season.

Information on alumni visits during home game weekends can be found at packers.com/news-and-events/calendar.html.

WISH GRANTING
Along with the Make-A-Wish® Foundation, the Packers assisted with granting the wishes of 16 children and young adults from 10 states who wanted to meet their favorite Packers players. Players, coaches and staff work diligently to make sure each visit is a positive and memorable experience for their special guests and their families.

MIKE AND JESSICA MCCARTHY GOLF INVITATIONAL
This annual fundraiser benefits the American Family Children’s Hospital and the McCarthy Family Foundation. This year’s event also received support from 26 Packers alumni and 13 Packers coaches in attendance.

GREEN BAY POLICE FOUNDATION
Head Coach Mike McCarthy and the Packers partnered to each make a $100,000 donation to the Green Bay Police Foundation. The donations are matching grants, requiring the Green Bay Police Foundation to raise an additional $200,000 in order to secure the donations directed to support the Foundation’s efforts to build and enhance relationships between the police and the community.

PLAYER INITIATIVES
Many Packers players contribute to causes that impact the lives of those around them, as well as establish their own foundations to help those in need. For example, David Bakhtiari, Morgan Burnett, Randall Cobb, Mason Crosby, Jordy Nelson, Aaron Rodgers and many other players support a variety of charitable organizations, from scholarship programs and youth charities to athletic programs and cancer foundations.

MY CAUSE MY CLEATS
Packers players took advantage of a league-wide opportunity to wear custom cleats that reflect their commitment to charitable causes. Davante Adams’ cleats showed his support of AIDS Awareness, while Ha Ha Clinton-Dix’s cleats promoted Ha Ha’s HERO Foundation. Clay Matthews’ cleats reflected his support of Cure Duchenne and Aaron Rodgers’ cleats displayed his support for the MACC Fund.

MCCARTHY FAMILY FOUNDATION
Head Coach Mike McCarthy and his wife, Jessica, established the McCarthy Family Foundation with the intent of fostering a long-term philanthropic commitment by his family beyond his NFL career. Throughout the past 11 seasons, the Foundation has made donations to benefit numerous charities, projects and organizations throughout Wisconsin, Kansas and his hometown of Pittsburgh.

The drive aimed to increase the pool of donors in hopes of finding a match for Henry and those with similar illnesses. At the drive, 75 people joined the donor registry, with 111 more registering online and 135 registering in Henry’s native Elizabethtown, Ken.

PACKERS GIVE BACK DAY

Throughout the day, fans and shoppers at the mall and throughout the area helped raise a total of $19,826, which was matched by the team up to $15,000, resulting in a total of $34,826 in donations.

PACKERS WOMEN’S ASSOCIATION
The Packers Women’s Association (PWA) membership comprises Packers players’ and coaches’ wives and girlfriends. It’s a nonprofit volunteer group focused on service to the community through leadership, fellowship and support. There is strong, focused management and a world-class fan base that propels the Packers to sustained winning on the football field. This requires a winning financial performance off the field. We are pleased to report the franchise turned in another winning year financially in 2017, and please be assured we have the financial and team resources for continued success on the field, and we will experience that.

The Green Bay Packers Audit Committee met with our independent accounting firm, Wipfli LLP, to review the results of their annual audit of our March 31, 2017, financial statements. Based on their thorough audit, Wipfli issued an unqualified opinion that our fiscal 2017 and 2016 financial statements are presented fairly in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP). Below are summary financial statements and some highlights from our operations for our 2017 and 2016 fiscal years. Some reclassifications have been made to 2016 amounts to conform to the 2017 classifications.

* Net of lease-obligated contributions from the Brown County Professional Football Stadium District toward the maintenance of Lambeau Field, of $11.6 million in both 2017 and 2016.

Revenues increased a healthy 8% to $441.4 million in 2017. National revenue grew 9.6%, while local revenue rose 6.1% primarily through growth in gameday revenues and sponsorship sales. The Lambeau Field College Classic, featuring LSU-Wisconsin, also helped fiscally, but more importantly allowed two more terrific fan bases to experience our marvelous home. Bringing together Badgers and Packers fans in Lambeau Field was also a highlight of the event – it doesn’t get any better than that.

Operating expenses increased 12.7% in 2017. Player and team costs were the primary drivers of the increase, along with some increased spending on fan engagement. Expenses are well-managed.

Under the salary cap system, player costs rise commensurately with revenue. We continue to spend all funds available under the system in pursuit of our 14th championship. Team expenses include some increases in travel and other costs.

On our business expense lines, sales & marketing expenses saw some increases in depreciation with the full year of operation by the Packers Hall of Fame and 1919 Kitchen & Tap restaurant. Our fans love both of these destinations. This line also reflects our continued investment in fan engagement. Our 2017 facilities expenses include additional depreciation expense on all the improvements we’ve made to our home over the past few years. The largest increases in G&A expenses include increased expenditure in donations and other League assessments. We make a strong commitment to investing in our community, and as part of the NFL’s efforts to further player safety.
Operating profit dipped from a year ago, but still turned in a good performance. The growth in revenue from our recent upgrades at Lambeau Field, and from our investments in new media, help raise revenue each year. It’s imperative that we keep our facilities state-of-the-art, and we have. While our expenses also rise with our growing operation, operating profit shows that overall, the franchise is very healthy and growing.

Our net income this year is significantly impacted by recording relocation fees the Packers will receive from three NFL franchises relocating to Los Angeles (Rams and Chargers) and Las Vegas (Raiders). Although these clubs won’t begin paying the fees for several years, GAAP requires us to record these one-time, non-recurring amounts now. As a result, our 2017 net income has risen to $72 million.

The Packers have $614 million of equity, consisting of $87 million from our five stock offerings, and the balance from retained annual earnings. We continue to invest equity to preserve and improve Lambeau Field. We’ve invested $341 million of our equity in property and equipment, and the remainder is held for franchise preservation. Included in cash & investments is $349 million of investments. Our safety net is strong, and will remain a focus.

The improvement projects to Lambeau Field are complete, and well done. The improvements to our suites and premium seat concourses, and construction of the Johnsonville Tailgate Village in our east parking lot will be complete in July. In this decade we’ve been able to keep Lambeau Field in great shape for our players and fans, upgrade our player facilities, improve the fan experience, and strengthen the viability of the franchise. Our real estate project – Titletown – will also have three tenants open in July, and will open more public areas throughout the 2017 season. Titletown is a long-term investment in both the Green Bay community and our future. Titletown strives to increase visitation and quality of life in Brown County, while also providing a reasonable return on our investment. Our balance sheet reflects these new assets, and the additional borrowings that help fund the improvements to our home and neighborhood. Revenues from current and future years will be more than adequate to pay off that debt.

We express our sincere appreciation to the residents of Brown County, shareholders, season ticket holders, employees, fans everywhere, customers, suppliers, and friends, for your support and loyalty. Your passion for the Green Bay Packers is truly special, and a significant factor to our success. We are fortunate to have the best fans in professional sports.
